Discussion Panels

Discussion Panel 1.

"Where We Were and Where We Are Going: Trajectories of Trust Research"

Moderator:

- Olena V. Knyazieva – PhD in Sociology, Associate Professor, Department of Regional Policy and Public Administration, Odesa Polytechnic National University

Discussion questions:

- How can trust be measured? The current state of trust research in Ukraine
- How has trust in government changed during the war? Why is trust in government more important during wartime than in peacetime?
- Drivers of trust: What makes people trust or distrust authorities in Ukraine?
- Trust in authority & authority of trust: What is the relationship between trust and authoritarianism during war?
- Intergenerational trust: Why do young and older generations perceive government, security, and the future differently?
- Trust in healthcare, media, and science
- Trust as a challenge and a resource: reflections from researchers

- “Active trust management” as an important area of trust research in contemporary conditions
  - “The dark side of trust” as a set of harmful dynamics rooted in trust
  - At a crossroads: directions for future trust research

Discussion Panel 2.

"Ukrainian Sociologists in the Global Arena: Experiences, Challenges, Transformations"

Moderator:

- Olga D. Kutsenko – Doctor of Sociology, Professor, Principal Research Fellow at the Department of Social Structures, Institute of Sociology, NAS of Ukraine; Humboldt Research Fellow at the Technical University of Berlin (Germany)

Discussion questions:

- What new research topics and thematic focuses have emerged in the work of Ukrainian sociologists within foreign academic environments?
  - What are the key challenges and opportunities of academic adaptation and integration abroad for Ukrainian scholars?
  - How do professional ties with Ukraine evolve in the context of academic mobility? What forms of joint initiatives and collaboration prove to be the most effective?
  - What role do Ukrainian sociologists play in the international public and expert arenas? How can their experience of war and social transformation contribute to global debates and knowledge production?

Discussion Panel 3.

"From Inclusive Society to Inclusive Knowledge"

Moderators:

- Nataliia Chernysh – Doctor of Sociological Sciences, Professor, Professor at the Department of Sociology, Ivan Franko National University of Lviv
- Olena Dikova-Favorska – Doctor of Sociological Sciences, Professor, Professor at the Department of Social and Humanitarian Disciplines, Zhytomyr Institute for Postgraduate Pedagogical Education, Zhytomyr Regional Council

Discussion questions:

- What does inclusion mean—or what could it mean—in sociology?
- Is an inclusive society possible in times of peace, and what about during war?
- Can inclusive policies overcome social inequality?

- New groups of the “excluded” during the ongoing war: how should we address their needs?
  - Is an inclusive society a hallmark of democracy?
  - The growing diversity of sociological knowledge—have we gone far enough?
  - The variability of sociological knowledge: a path to new opportunities or a limit to further development?
  - Will the era of transdisciplinarity follow interdisciplinarity—or are such concerns misplaced?
  - Why should sociologists care about the shift from interdisciplinarity to transdisciplinarity if, in a unified scientific world, sociology might cease to exist?

Roundtables

Roundtable 1.

"Researching Occupied Communities: Theoretical, Methodological, and Ethical Challenges"

Moderators:

- Yuliia G. Soroka – Doctor of Sociology, Associate Professor, Professor of Sociology at V.N. Karazin Kharkiv National University, Senior Researcher at the Gender Centre, Geneva Graduate Institute of International and Development Studies (Switzerland)
- Oksana Mikheeva – Doctor of Historical Sciences, Professor, Kyiv School of Economics

Topics for Discussion:

- Theoretical frameworks for researching occupied communities during war: prospects and challenges of interdisciplinary collaboration
  - Ethical dilemmas in researching experiences of occupation: hierarchy of security and issues of prioritization
  - Preservation and academic use of research findings on occupied communities during wartime: what are best practices in Ukraine and abroad?
  - Social and scholarly relevance of studying occupied communities: why does knowledge of occupation matter?

Roundtable 2.

"The Algorithmic Society: Social Challenges in the Age of Artificial Intelligence"

Moderator:

- Tymofii Brik – PhD in Sociology, Rector of the Kyiv School of Economics

Topics for Discussion:

- How does artificial intelligence (AI) change decision-making in key social institutions?

- How does the implementation of algorithmic decisions and delegation of normative authority to algorithms in education, healthcare, justice, governance, etc., affect public trust in social institutions?
  - Can we speak of the emergence of new forms of social control in the age of algorithms?
  - How do algorithmic systems transform social stratification and the reproduction of inequality? Are we witnessing a new form of digital divide?
  - What social inequalities are reproduced or intensified by the use of AI?
  - Does AI have the potential to overcome institutional bureaucracy, or does it merely automate it?
  - Is Ukrainian society prepared for the ethical challenges posed by AI implementation?
  - How does AI transform the role of university instructors (from expert to facilitator)?
  - Can AI replace or displace traditional forms of university education (and in which fields)?
  - What ethical issues arise from the use of AI in education?
  - Can the academic community develop its own approaches to regulating the use of AI?
  - What epistemological challenges does sociology face in the context of algorithmic “black boxes”? Can sociology maintain its critical function under conditions of limited access to algorithmic processes?

Roundtable 3.

"Religion and Society in Wartime"

Moderator:

- Maxim A. Parashchevin – Doctor of Sociology, Senior Research Fellow, Department of Social Psychology, Institute of Sociology, NAS of Ukraine

Topics for Discussion:

- Religion and mass consciousness in contemporary societies
  - Specifics of inter-confessional relations under conditions of Russia’s war against Ukraine
  - The role of religion in the modern information war
  - Ukraine’s new confessional policy: features and possible consequences

Workshop

“Where to Find Data for Research? Using Electronic Archives of Social Data”

- Andrii P. Gorbachyk - PhD in Physics and Mathematics, Professor at the Department of Methodology and Methods of Sociological Research, Taras Shevchenko National University of Kyiv
